REMEMBER TO BRING A PENCIL!
PENS, MARKERS, AND CRAYONS AREN’T ALLOWED IN MOST MUSEUM GALLERIES.
In the mid-1960s, artists in Los Angeles began to look around and discover some unique inspiration for their art. They found ideas in things that were special to Southern California like sunlight, the aeronautical and space industry, surfers, and the surfaces of objects like surfboards and hot rod racers.

LIGHT AND SPACE:
Artists in the Light and Space movement began to think about working less with things, and more with environments and the way they appear. They wanted to manipulate space with light.

Find an artwork made of light.
Turn to someone in your family and describe what you see.

It can be difficult to draw (or photograph) these works because they are meant to create illusions that challenge your perception. Your brain creates objects or shapes out of the light but nothing is actually there. So it is probably easier to describe what you think you see rather than draw it.
CELEBRATE LIGHT AND SPACE!

FINISH FETISH: FIND AN ARTWORK WITH AN INTERESTING SURFACE. (Hint: Look for art that reflects light.)

The surface of a work of art is called its “finish.” Circle the words that best describe its finish:

- Smooth
- Rough
- Polished
- Hard
- Slippery
- Dull
- Soft
- Rigid
- Shiny
- Transparent
- Opaque

The RED WORDS describe the highly polished surfaces of art called “Finish Fetish.” The surfaces of surfboards, jets, and hot rods provided inspiration for these creations made of fiberglass, plastic, and car paint. This art is meant to be seen in the bright, hot, Southern Californian light.

How would it look different in a place with cloudy, rainy skies?

Or in a cold, brisk winter light?

ON YOUR WAY HOME...

Look at how the sunlight is reflected on buildings and other cars as you drive. What kind of objects do you see that might have helped inspire “finish fetish” artists?
